Writing with More Imagery Homework

Directions:

Rewrite each of the sentences, employing sensual imagery that can be seen, heard, touched, smelled, or tasted. Feel free to use several sentence and lots of imagination. You can skip one or do it for extra credit.

Example:

Original: I saw something interesting in Wal-Mart.

Good Example: At Wal-Mart, when I was kneeling on the tile floor in front of the light bulbs looking for a ten watt bulb for a Japanese paper lantern, at the end of the aisle, I saw two razor thin twin red head teenage girls facing each other and giggling while covering their mouths because in the adjacent aisle full of boxes of car oil, a pudgy toddler was pooping.

Bad Example: At Thanksgiving, the table was covered with hot, delicious food. Everyone was hungry and sat around the table, staring at the big turkey and mashed potatoes. After dinner, my mom just kept bringing out more and more plates of deserts.

1. There was food on the table.

2. Drifting to sleep in my bedroom, I saw something.

3. She/he acted like a jerk.

4. Sitting in the diner at 2am, eating sticky buns with ice cream, I noticed something.

5. A person ran through some place.
